NOT MR. MUSSEY.

The Correspondent of the Commercial Gazette Set Right.

RICHMOND, Va., November 7.—The Dis-natch this morning publishes the fol-patch this morning publishes the loblowing.

Mr. Mussey, the correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, writes from Petersburg to the Dispatch that it was not he who had a difficulty with Charles Preston in Jackson ward on Tuesday, and in corroboration of this declaration he sends the written statement of several other Northern correspondents who were with him at the time that he was in Jackson ward, and who represent that Mussey had no sort of a quarrel or light at all. The Inspatch published the original account upon the information of several persons who truly believed that the stranger with whom Preston had the difficulty was Mussey, and thus having unintentionally wronged him, cheerfully gives place to this correction. place to this correction.
